

Backyard Bowlin'

- Purpose: Knock down the opponent's bowling pin(s) while defending your own.
- Setup: An octagonal shape (or any polygon) outlined with cones, with one bowling pin (or more or other objects on ground or on bench) behind each side and balls in the middle.
- Play: Each cabin will be assigned a side/pin to defend. Teams will use balls to try to knock down other bowling pins. However, players may not move with the ball; it must be passed (subject to change or might be a variation). Also, defenders may only wave arms, intercept passes, etc. – no physical contact. Girls will only be attacking girls' pins, and boys will only attack boys' pins; but when a cabin's pin is knocked down, they may go to help defend any pin from their team, boy or girl. If there happens to be 1 girl cabin and 1 boy cabin from opposing teams left at the end, there will be an all-play announced, and the last pin standing will win the round.
- Variations: Only boys attacking
Only girls attacking
Individual cabins attacking or defending
Last-round setup with many pins behind opposite sides
